STL Communications, Inc., a leading provider of technology and telecommunications implementation and solutions, has been named the 2016 Avaya Midmarket Partner of the Year Award at the recent Avaya ENGAGE conference held in Las Vegas. Avaya presented several awards for outstanding support, contribution and commitment to innovation from their partner community.

Steve Leidholdt, President/CEO of STL Communications, commented, “STL Communications has developed a customized cloud and managed service for telephony, wireless and networking. With our Total Voice or Total Wireless service organizations are now able to focus on their core goals without the headache of managing their technology solutions. This award is great recognition of the great work by the entire STL team to develop and bring this solution to market.”

“As an Avaya Diamond partner, STL uses the Powered by Avaya model to provide both voice and networking as managed service offerings; they tailor these solutions to specific customer needs as part of a long term customer relationship strategy.
